

WYLDES MEADOW

LOCATION: SOUTHERN HIGHLANDS NSW
YEAR: 2007

This house is located in the Southern Highlands district of New South Wales and is set amongst rolling pasture with views to adjoining rural properties, escarpments and national parkland in the distance. An existing 1970's face brick bungalow was extensively remodelled to create two linked pavilions. The principle living spaces are interconnected and are located to capitalise on aspect to the terraces, lawn and the view. Painted white internally, a dark brown colour exterior references the beautiful old dry stone walls. Gardens were replanned to open up vistas and panoramas from the house.
